BATAVIA, March 4.—Apparently fully recovered from the smashing blows dealt them at the beachheads but still facing a determined counter-offensive, Japanese troops in Java made "some headway" at various points today as their infiltration fanned out into major action. United Nations forces still are attacking "with great stubbornness and an offensive spirit," an official communique said.

But it could not be denied that enemy advances were being recorded and that the Dutch plan to hurl the invaders "into the sea" was far from fruition.

The main forces on both sides are now coming into the fighting and heavy engagements were reported all along the northern coastal sectors.

Dutch and Indonesian forces were pictured as battling stubbornly and in great heart whenever they meet the Japanese who in numerically

Last night could be recorded on the calendar of the year as post-potent night. Because of weather conditions many of the events that had been scheduled for last night were postponed.

Highland avenue presented an unusual picture today. From curb to curb there were no car rails showing, and the surface of the street was quite smooth. Snow packed down on the thoroughfare made a transformation on the surface and appearance of the street.

LONDON, March 4.—Plans for a gigantic air offensive against Nazi Germany with the aid of top-flight bombers from the United States were announced in London today.

The announcement was made by Sir Archibald Sinclair, secretary of state for air, in introducing an budget estimates to the House of Commons.

"The Americans are going to send us dive-bombers," he said.

"These aircraft, markedly superior to the German Junkers-87, will shortly be available."

"We intend to resume our bombing offensive against Germany on the largest possible scale at the earliest possible moment."

Japs Are Being Pushed Back In Subang District

(International News Service)

BANDUNG, March 4.—Local successes against Japanese forces which had pushed south from their beachhead near Indramayu to the village of Subang were reported today by British volunteers who took part in the fighting although some enemy advances were made elsewhere.

Subang, 40 miles south of the landing place, is the farthest point of Japanese penetration on Java.

Stubbornly-fighting Netherlands Indies troops, the volunteers said, are slowly pushing the enemy back.

Half of the village of Subang appeared to be in Dutch hands when they left and Dutch forces were attempting to push the enemy out of the rest of the town.

Infiltrating Japanese soldiers have been "practically without exception" rounded up and shot, and the local situation was said to be "strongly in hand."

The British volunteers were members of a home guard unit.

Meanwhile the United Nations counter-offensive continued, while one important Japanese thrust was reported

COUNTY SCHOOLS ARE STILL CLOSED

All main thoroughfares throughout the county are open to traffic today, following the record 20-hour snow, which blanketed the local district under 10 inches of wet, heavy snow, but virtually all rural schools remained closed today due to the fact that the secondary roads are still closed. City schools resumed their sessions this morning after having been closed at noon yesterday.

The snow was the worst which has swept the local district for many years. With the temperature just around the freezing mark, at times a little above, the snow was heavy and wet. While this made it hard to handle, it prevented it from drifting much, although there was some drifting on some of the highways.

Burma Drive Seems Stalled For Present

Japanese Awaiting Reinforcements—American
Fliers Hammer Lines

SEASON OF HEAVY RAINS APPROACHES

(International News Service)

MANDALAY, March 4.—Temporarily stalled by stubborn British land resistance and hammering air attacks, Japanese forces driving into Burma today were reported to be awaiting the arrival of reinforcements from the rear.

The British imperial defenders of Burma and Rangoon had dug in along the Sittang river defense shield during the comparative lull in fighting, according to reports reaching Mandalay, and were awaiting the Japanese assault.

Informed quarters asserted it will probably be at least a week before the Japanese, crippled by recent heavy losses, can renew their attack.

Meanwhile, British reinforcements of men and materials were said to be on the way, and a natural aid to the defenders' cause the season of monsoons or heavy rains was said to be approaching.

Far behind the most advanced Japanese lines, American aviators of the A. V. G. group joined British and Indian fliers to hammer at Jap communication lines, in an attempt to slow the stream of reinforcements.

"The all-India radio reported considerable activity by R. A. F. and Indian aircraft against Japanese positions in Burma and Thailand. These raids were credited with slowing down the enemy advance against the Sittang river line.

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)

MOSCOW, March 4.—Beating back repeated and ever-stronger Nazi counter-attacks, Red army forces have encircled and wiped out several enemy strongholds, the high command announced today.

Meanwhile, the Russian offensive still thundered forward despite all German efforts to stall it.

The high command said that 3,400 Nazis had been killed in two days of fighting on two sectors of the front alone.

"On March 3," said the midnight communique, "our troops fought tenaciously, encircling and annihilating nests of resistance, and continued to advance in several sectors."

"On March 2, the Germans lost 60 planes and the Soviets lost 11."

"Two thousand Germans have been killed in the last two days on the Leningrad front and 1,400 have been killed on the Kalinin front."

A supplementary communique said that on the battle sector northwest of Moscow Red army forces liberated two more villages and captured or destroyed four tanks, 1 cannon, two mine-throwers, 10 machine guns and 72 trucks.

Nazi Reports Denied
The Russian radio said German reports of recent Nazi parachute troops successes around Leningrad were no more than a German "propaganda lie" sent out in an attempt to cover up Germany's "terrible defeat" since Hitler took over command of the army.

The Russian broadcast also claimed the German newspaper Hamburger Fremdenblatt reported German theatre audiences were "complaining because the new films do not show the Russian advance."

At noon today the high command (Continued On Page Two)

LONDON, March 4.—Japan has crippled the United Nations naval forces protecting Java and now has complete control of the sea area of the Dutch East Indies, an authoritative Dutch source in London said today in sounding a grim warning of the desperate situation in the southwest Pacific.

The announced loss of two Netherlands cruisers and other United Nations naval craft was a "crippling blow," the spokesman said, as most of the airdromes surrounding Java are already in Japanese hands and the possibility of reinforcing the island is now "well-nigh impossible."

WASHINGTON, March 4.—American and United Nations forces on land, sea and air exchanged sledgehammer blows with Axis invaders in the world's battle-fronts today as the United States Pacific fleet carried the war into enemy waters.

While fierce fighting for the possession of strategic Java held the spotlight on one sector, a smashing new victory by the navy west of the Gilbert Islands in which 16 enemy bombers were destroyed gave evidence of America's "offensive" in that portion of the Pacific.

Operations of task units of the American Pacific fleet in waters west of the enemy bases on the Gilbert Islands indicated strategy to draw the Japanese navy out in attempts to lessen Nipponese pressure in the southwest Pacific.

Fleet In Operation
The navy's latest communique disclosing the successful battle in which U. S. cruisers, destroyers and an aircraft carrier engaged, gave the American people the first news that the fleet is steadily operating farther west in the Pacific. The latest victory took place more than 2,000 miles southwest of Hawaii. None of the American surface ships were damaged.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The war department today reported that Gen. Douglas MacArthur has pulled another amazing coup—this time dispatching his tiny air force against a Japanese armada in Subic Bay sending two large enemy vessels to the bottom and inflicting wide-spread damage.

In a communique, the department said that the American-Philippine air force sunk one vessel of 10,000 tons, another of 8,000 tons, and, in addition, destroyed two enemy motor launches of 100 tons each.

"Many smaller craft were damaged," the communique said.

"Large fires were started on the docks of Olongapo and Grande Island. These were followed by many heavy explosions among enemy stores."

AIR RAID SHELTER IS REPORTED HIT

(International News Service)

VICHY, France, March 4.—A casualty list of 600 dead and 1,000 wounded was announced by the Vichy government today as a result of last night's raid by the Royal Air Force on the suburbs of Paris.

The victims included 150 persons huddled in an air raid shelter which suffered a direct hit, it was said.

The communique added that 200 houses were destroyed as a result of the attack.

Reuters quoted the French news agency as stating later that it was estimated more than 600 persons, instead of only 400, were killed in the raid.

The communique said all the wounded were taken to hospitals.

At Clamart, 12 houses were destroyed, two persons were killed and five were wounded; at Issy-les-Moulineaux the toll was 17 killed and 30 houses destroyed, at Villejuif (Continued On Page Two)

GREENVILLE GIRL WEDS ROBERT EMERY

On Tuesday evening, March 3, at 6:45 o'clock in the presence of immediate families and a few friends, a quiet and informal wedding ceremony took place in Highland U. P. church, when Miss Elizabeth Henry of Greenville, daughter of H. M. Henry of Adamsville, became the bride of Robert A. Emery, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Emery of 221 Laurel avenue, this city.

The vows were exchanged before an embankment of flowers, with the pastor, Dr. D. L. Ferguson, officiating. The impressive single ring service was used.

The bride was attractive in her wedding costume suit of aqua wool and complementing accessories. Her shoulder corsage was made up of Talsman roses and gardenias. Miss Lucille Emery sister of the bridegroom, as her only attendant, wore a beige wool with brown accoutrements. Her shoulder bouquet was of pink roses.

William J. Offutt, Jr. of New Castle served as best man. A congratulatory period followed and later in the day the newlyweds departed on a short wedding trip. The bride chose a gold toned coat to wear over her ensemble for traveling.

Mrs. Emery, a graduate of Penn High in Greenville, is an employee of the Pennsylvania Power company in Greenville. Mr. Emery, a graduate of Westminster college, is a member of Kappa Phi Lambda fraternity. At present he is stationed at Fort Jackson, S. C.

MRS. G. FORRESTER HONORED AT SHOWER

Mrs. George Forrester, nee Harriett Hemphill, a bride of recent date, again graced the role of honor Tuesday evening when Mrs. Harry Earl and Mrs. Earl Parker entertained jointly in the home of the latter. Friends and relatives joined for the event, which was in the nature of a linen shower.

Informal avenues of pastime featured, including tables of cards. Lunch was served at a late hour by the hostesses, the appointments being in tune with the occasion. Places marked for upwards 15.

Before departing, Mrs. Forrester was presented with a large collection of linen articles to use when she goes to housekeeping.

WILKISON CLASS DINNER-ELECTION

Officers for the new year were elected when members of the Wilkison Bible class gathered in Highland United Presbyterian church for their dinner meeting Tuesday evening.

The dinner was served at attractively decorated tables by members of the Naomi circle under the leadership of Mrs. Elwood Gilbert. Mrs. J. E. Hinish had charge of the St. Patrick's Day decorations.

The class president, Howard Burr, served as toastmaster and called upon the church pastor, Dr. D. L. Ferguson, for a few remarks. Later, pictures of the marines and navy were shown by Clay Aubel.

Officers elected were: President, Howard Burr; vice president, Glenn McCracken; secretary, Mrs. Robert Book; treasurer, Miss Elizabeth Parker.

Special guests were H. A. Wilkison and Dr. and Mrs. D. L. Ferguson.

Russert-Blair
Attending the wedding on Saturday in Youngstown of Mrs. Eunice Adair Russert to Lurando J. Blair both of Youngstown, were the groom's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rodenbaugh of 413 Butz avenue.

The ceremony took place in the Woodland avenue Lutheran church, with Rev. Paul Adams officiating. Mrs. E. A. Irwin attended the bride as matron of honor. Glenn W. Garwig served his brother-in-law as best man.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Flack of Woodside avenue, Youngstown. The groom, who is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Blair of New Castle, has made his home with his sister, Mrs. Glenn W. Garwig of Maywood drive, Youngstown. He is employed in the office of the Aetna Standard Engineering company.

After a short motor trip east, the bride and groom will be at home after March 4 in their newly-built home, 447 Hylda avenue, Youngstown.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

HOPEFUL SIGNS IN FAMILY LIFE

Traveling about constantly thru-out the United States, meeting groups of parents, teachers, religious leaders, social workers and groups of youths in high schools and colleges, I have been encouraged and pleased over finding so many happy and congenial situations.

Mrs. Myers and I have been guests in families of various levels of education and income and we have found at all levels some very happy family groups. We have visited in homes where every member seemed to have deep consideration for every other member as a person; where each child and parent seemed to feel comfortable and worthy; where no one made fun of anybody else or looked it over him; where as guests we could enjoy talking with the child of two, nine or 15 without being interrupted by the parents; where no one betrayed fear that any other member of the family might say or do what he should not.

We have heard children, youths and parents, away from their homes, tell of the good times they have together in their respective families. We have heard children and youths relate the things their parents do to make them feel worthy and eager to do right.

Teachers More Understanding

We have visited in ever so many classrooms in various towns and cities; also in some strictly rural schools. Compared with what we saw and heard in schools 15 years ago, we are convinced that the proportion of teachers who understand children and treat them as real persons has greatly increased.

We have heard teachers and students, leaders in clubs, Y's, Scouts, Camp Fire, and church groups, and young people in these groups tell of many types of working together for good understanding and cooperation. We have been inspired at what we have seen and heard in a few scattered places, about wholesome programs and facilities for recreation.

Of course, along with such, we also are reminded daily from various parts of our nation of numerous types of happy relationships. And we believe we have good reasons to be very hopeful.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

OLD-FASHIONED
My old-fashioned father knew very few tricks;
He started at eight and he worked until six.
His ride on the trolley took almost an hour,
And longer if ever they ran out of power.

But he never complained or said things were all wrong;
Day in and day out he just plodded along.

My old-fashioned father was grateful and glad
That strength and clear head for his labors he had.

He used to remark, in a manner most grave:
"Man had two things to learn; how to work; how to save!"

And what does it matter how long is the road
Or how heavy the weight if you've strength for the load?"

"Grow weary by doing," he frequently said.
"There's nothing like labor to soften the bed."

The pride of achievement by working is won;
You find it in hardship, but never in fun!

And my old-fashioned father went down to his grave
Believing he'd taught us to work and to save.

VICTORY
Have you heard the story of Gertrude Brown? A freckle-faced girl, in a country town, who wore cotton stockings, and calico, and never once had a beau?

Most of the time she spent outdoors, helping her pappy with the chores; milked the cows, mowed the hay, and never a man looked her way.

The pretty girls of the town always laughed at Gertrude Brown. They wore high-heeled shoes, and slizen hose, went to parties and had many beaux.

But poor old Gertrude went on her way, never had a word to say, just hoping as all girls will do some day a man would come to woo.

One day her uncle—way out west—went to his long-earned rest. But before he turned up his toes, made his will—and what do you suppose?

To his favorite niece—little Gertrude—he left this socks and old rag shirt, along with which she acquired his jalousy—and four new tires.

Such excitement caused a stir and all the boys came courting her. The banker's son beamed with pride when Gertrude Brown became his bride.

And all the envious city girls stamped their feet and shake their curls, consoling themselves that all men are liars. Gertrude just beams—she has four new tires.

Mrs. Gushey—I just adore nature, don't you?

Mrs. Noorich—in moderation, yes. But as one acquires a wide knowledge of nature comes to feel that nature was intended for the lowly classes.

Urge Jap Offensive Via Alaska Now

President Says We Will Take Field

Public Becoming Impatient At Delay

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, March 4.—"Soon we shall be on the offensive," President Roosevelt promised in his latest radio broadcast, meaning, of course, that the United States and presumably the rest of the United Nations will be on the offensive against the Axis powers.

"Yeah, but how soon?" quite a lot of our war administrators are asking, rather impatiently.

British Prime Minister Churchill recently told parliament that it will be impossible to start in 1943. For the impatient chap this evidently won't be soon enough. Illustratively, U. S. Production Manager Donald Nelson suggests, "Let's stop thinking what we can do to the enemy in 1943 and begin thinking about doing a plenty to 'em during early 1942."

There's some difference of opinion, though, as to where we should strike first.

Col. W. F. Kernan, one of our American strategists is just out with a book, "Defense Will Not Win the War," in which he recommends an immediate attack on Italy, initially. It's the weakest link in the Axis chain, he observes, undoubtedly can be knocked out in the shortest time and cracking it loose, even wobbly as it is already, can't be darned bad the colonel thinks, for the rest of the whole totalitarian chains morale, to say the least.

Before Pearl Harbor
Colonel Kernan wrote his book, however, before Japan was hooked up with the Nazi and Fascist links.

There are critics who believe he would have advocated a start on the Japs, as more urgent in need of attention, by the United States, anyway, if he'd known when he was doing his writing, how much Cain they'd be raising by the time his volume was due to make its appearance.

The theory is that Nippon should be concentrated on right now and right at home. Its current campaign is so spread out and so far off that it's almost a hopeless undertaking to deal with it here and there, in spots. The United Nations probably could handle the job scattering if they could join forces against the Japs alone, but they're so busy elsewhere that they can't do it.

China's geography and man power are o. k. but the Chinese aren't fixed to fight otherwise than defensively and an offensive is what the Jap situation calls for.

A Korean rebellion against Jap rule is beginning to simmer and that will be gratifying, too, if it develops, but it can't hit the islanders right where they live, and that is what's required, to dispose of them 100 per cent.

How manage it? Why, do it by plane from Alaska. That is the argument. It's the merest hop from the Aleutians to the Mikado's realm. A sizable fleet of bombers unquestionably could criss-cross that archipelago from side to side and from end to end. Its architecture is almost wholly lath, plaster and wall paper. A good bombing wouldn't leave it in much as ruins, it would leave it as nothing at all.

Oh, yes, it would be a barbarous attack on a civilian population, but does anybody suppose that it would not have a demoralizing effect upon Japs in Burma, Malaya, the Philippines and the Dutch East Indies to know that everything above ground in their home land had gone up in smoke?

Comrade Stalin's recent utterances against the Germans are assessed as an offensive of his own peculiar sort—not against the Germans but against Hitler, their leader.

New Viewpoint
The Russians, said Josef, have nothing against Germans. They're against Adolf exclusively. Joe has not talked like this until very lately.

He's been broadly anti-German. It's surmised that his agents have told him of considerable dissatisfaction with their Fuehrer among Germans generally and that he was making a covert appeal to them to chuck him overboard, which indisputably would play havoc with the Axis chain.

Nevertheless, I don't hear many expressions of agreement with his proposition that he likes Germans, for themselves alone.

The reaction I get is to the purport that the Germans wouldn't have fallen for Herr Hitler at all if they were even semi-civilized. Still, if Joe's remarks are intended simply to split them internally, it's conceded that his strategy is sound.

Anyhow, the demand is for a United Nations offensive—this month, or next.

HAPPYGRAMS
by ERICH BRANDEIS

In a talk before a women's club a speaker emphasized the value of laughter and entertainment:

"Let us laugh," he said; "let us thank our actors and artists who give us escape from the grim realities of war."

What a mistaken viewpoint! Laughter and entertainment by all means, but escape—NO.

Escaping means fleeing, turning our back, running away.

We have done entirely too much of that.

Now let us face it! Let us laugh and be in high spirits, but don't let us try to escape.

Let song and laughter be a tonic. Let it help us to be brave—and die with a song in our hearts, if necessary.

But let us never, for one single minute, forget that this is a fight to a finish, from which we refuse—and the enemy is unable—to escape!

Wheeler keeps saying he didn't vote against defenses. No, all you did was o make people believe weapons weren't needed.

The World and the Mud Puddles

WHAT'S IN A FACE?

Let us consider today the physiognomic school of historical synthesis. Must of us have heard of Pausanias' famous epigram about Cleopatra's nose—how, if it had been a little longer, the whole course of history would have been different. Mr. Wallace H. Deuel, whose book, "People Under Hitler," is published by Harcourt, Brace, attaches a similar historic importance to Hitler's mustache. Had the mustache been longer, says Mr. Deuel, the history of our world would have been very different. Mr. Deuel, who was Berlin correspondent of the Chicago Daily News from 1936 until about a year ago, says that because the mustache gave Hitler such a ridiculous appearance, people inside as well as outside of Germany refused to take him seriously until it was too late. "They thought he was funny," they laughed at him. And while they were laughing, Hitler came over them and their whole world about them. Hitler's mustache you will remember, fooled even Miss Dorothy Thompson. After taking one good look at it in the Kaiserhof Hotel in 1932, Miss Thompson decided that Hitler was not to be the future dictator of Europe.

Mr. Deuel's theory has a good deal of plausibility. Most great conquerors and nearly all great revolutionaries have had something of the ridiculous about them. Caesar, besides being bald, was subject to the falling sickness, and Shakespeare makes Cassius wonder that "a man of such feeble temper should so get the start of the majestic world." Mohammed suffered from the same undignified ailment. And though the inhabitants of Mecca were a less fastidious folk than the Romans, it is certain that they underestimated their prophet very seriously.

Attila the Hun and Genghis Kahn were like characters out of a comic strip. Napoleon, as we know, cut a very ridiculous figure at the beginning of his career, at least in the eyes of Barras and Josephine.

Not until the barber's itch forced him to get rid of his grotesque sans-culotte haircut did the rest of the world get thoroughly alarmed about him.

And there was a time when American editorial writers referred to the military genius of the Russian revolution and civil war as the "Bronx pants presser" in much the same way that we have referred to the genius of Germany as "the Austrian house painter."

In this first year of the new war how is the American health?

Let us compare it with the first year of the World War I.

Last year, the death rate was 74 per 1,000—lowest on record.

In 1917, the death rate was 11.6 per 1,000.

In the age group, 1 to 4 years, the improvement is startling.

Deaths in this group are 80 per cent below the figures for 1917.

The death decrease in ages 5 to 24 has been more than 70 per cent. It has fallen 30 per cent in those from 65 to 74 years.

One outstanding mortality reduction has been in pneumonia.

Tuberculosis shows a decline in deaths since 1917 of 77 per cent. The health of Americans is in excellent condition.

Senate May Approve Bill Allowing Relief Recipients Some Work

By JOHN PAGET
International News Service
Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, March 4.—Senate approval was forecast today for the Stevenson Relief Bill allowing relief recipients to work at part-time jobs in an effort to alleviate the labor shortage.

Sen. James A. Geltz, Allegheny Republican and majority floor leader, declared he favored the proposal and predicted speedy enactment of the measure after it receives minor technical amendments.

The bill, drafted by Sen. George R. Stevenson, Clinton Republican, would be especially beneficial to farmers hard hit by the draft, its sponsor said.

The Democratic-controlled house, long favoring liberalization of Pennsylvania's relief laws that are difficult to adapt to rising living costs, was reported ready to place its stamp of approval on the bill.

May Earn $150 A Year
Briefly, the Stevenson bill provides that relief recipients may earn a maximum of $150 in any calendar year to meet the rising costs of living, and the amount will not be deducted from their grants. All money earned at odd-jobs over that sum will be deducted from the succeeding year's grants in equal amounts.

Secretary of Public Assistance Howard L. Russell wrote a letter to Stevenson, explaining that the department's earned income exemptions cannot amount to more than $4.35 a month or in one year to more than $52.20 for one individual. Russell indicated the department felt the amount was sufficient.

Sen. Edward J. Coleman, Lackawanna Democrat, pointed out that the measure would aid relief recipients in the anthracite fields where they could earn the increased income exemption by working in the mines.

The Department of Public Assistance, however, is not satisfied with Stevenson's bill in its present form because the proposal does not limit the added earnings to certain weekly or monthly sums. Officials also expressed the belief that the $10, in addition to state grants, "might be an incentive for persons to stay on relief." Amendments are being prepared to remove loopholes in the bill.

Stevenson emphasized that adoption of the bill would carry out the recommendations of the state relief board, whose members approved increased relief grants to meet the rising costs of living but hinted that the problem was one for the legislature. The measure would be effective only during the war and for three months afterward.

TITAN VICTORY GETS STUDENTS SHORT HOLIDAY

Westminster College's stirring basketball triumph over Duquesne University, ranked as one of the major victories in the Titans' long list, brought with it a half day holiday for the student body.

Shortly after the nerve-jerking game ended Tuesday night, Dr. R. F. Galbreath, president of the school, declared that the student body, tired and almost hoarse from cheering, could forget today's morning session.

WARM SUN MELTS AWAY SNOW TODAY

Much of yesterday's snow was melting away today, a warm sun beaming down on the district, but there was no place for the water to run on many of the streets, and slushy pools were formed.

Alleyways in the downtown district were precarious places for people to walk, the water running off roofs.

Printing pro-Jap stuff was much like other crimes in America. Men risked it because they had little to fear if they got caught.

One-eleventh of the total area of the State of Maine is made up of lakes and ponds.

British Attack On Paris Plants Legitimate War
(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, March 4.—Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles today described the British Royal Air Force raid on the German controlled Renault Motor Works in the suburb of Paris as an entirely legitimate means of war.

Commenting at his press conference on the British aerial raids, Welles said it was entirely clear that the British bombers had attacked factories occupied in France which are completely under the control of Germany and have been manufacturing war materials for the Nazis. Therefore, he said, the raids constituted an entirely legitimate means of warfare. He declined to comment on the political aspects of the British move.

More U.S. Troops Reach Ireland

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

SOMEWHERE IN NORTHERN IRELAND, March 4.—Thousands of American expeditionary force reinforcements have arrived recently at an undisclosed port in northern Ireland, correspondents were permitted to reveal today.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Text of a special communique follows: "Northern Ireland—The war department announces that additional United States Army troops have arrived in northern Ireland.

"No information is being made public as to the designation of units or their composition and strength, nor as to the ports of embarkation, dates of sailing, or other details of the troop movements.

"There is nothing to report from other areas."

First announcement of arrival of American expeditionary forces in United Kingdom was on January 25, following the debarkation of an undisclosed number of soldiers "somewhere in northern Ireland."

Subsequently the army announced that Maj. Gen. James E. Chaney, had taken over the command of all American forces in the United Kingdom.

News Briefs From City Hall

Employees of the city streets department worked throughout Tuesday night removing snow from East Washington street. Early this morning it had been cleaned away, as far east as County Line street. The city used a tractor and shovel to load the snow into approximately a dozen trucks, according to city hall reports.

Joseph Yackowitz, of North Liberty street, who served for months as a temporary policeman for the city is now at the Air Cadets Reception Center at Kelley Field, Texas, according to information received at city headquarters today. He is the third policeman in service, George Sigler and Albert Russo having left here some time ago.

Relatives of Helen Moskal, Balph avenue, today requested city police to search for her. She is 17 years old and has been missing several days and is believed to be in Ohio.

Abandonment of street car operations probably saved quite an expenditure during the past several days. Were cars operated a considerable amount of salt and sand would have been required for operation.

Although some persons objected strenuously when former Police Chief John F. Haven ordered traffic lights installed years ago at North Jefferson and Grant street, their worth has been demonstrated time and again. This is verified by the absence of accidents on days such as Tuesday and today.

John Cartwright, assessor and Fred Brown, assistant, are busy going over some of the work which will lead to the triennial assessment for 1943-45, inclusive. It is likely that a personal view of properties will be made this time.

There is one record, at least which the city can claim and that is an increase, instead of a decrease in parking meter receipts for the first two months of 1942. Most cities have shown a decrease since the auto tire rationing plan became effective.

No Auto Tests Held Tuesday
There were no auto operating tests Tuesday in Sampson street. No motor police arrived to hold the tests, probably because of such unfavorable conditions. However, several applicants, armed with a learner's permit went to the test station, ready to brave the test. Examinations will be resumed next Tuesday.

Students Can Now Enlist In Reserve

Student 17 And Those Who Have Not Reached Twentieth Birthday Can Enlist

U. S. Naval reserve is now accepting enlistments of students in schools and colleges who are 17 and who have not yet reached their 20th birthday.

This group will be enlisted as apprentice seamen, Class V-1, USNR. It was announced today by D. C. Ritchie, officer in charge of the New Castle recruiting office.

Upon the enlistees' request, the Navy will place the group on inactive duty until completion of current, scholastic year (which ends about July 1), unless the military situation necessitates their being placed on active duty before that time.

Schools and colleges are being encouraged to give extra physical training and studies to this group.

Qualifications for enlistment:

(1) Written consent of parents or guardian.

(2) Be able to pass the standard enlisted physical examination for the Naval Reserve.

(3) Furnish authentic evidence of age.

Further information may be had at the Navy Recruiting office, Post Office Bldg., New Castle, Pa.

Urges Religious Teachings In Schools To Aid Church Maintain Nation's Morale

(International News Service)

CHICAGO—Religious instruction in the public schools is advocated by Justice Norris C. Blake of the Colorado Supreme Court, to aid the Church to maintain the Nation's moral and spiritual values.

"We hear a lot of talk about the issue of separation of church and state," Justice Blake told the Chicago convention of the International Council of Religious Education, "but that doctrine is not as clear-cut as is popularity supposed."

Asserting that few youths who have had religious training come before juvenile or criminal courts, the speaker added:

"I will not presume to say that religious education was and is the sole answer to the problem of the annual American crime bill. However, it is one of the most important keys to the situation. And the vast field that it needs to occupy is indicated by the fact that in my state, for instance, half of the boys and girls do not go to any Sunday School at all."

"Among all the 48 states there is only one whose constitution contains the 'actual provision' 'There shall be no union of church and state.' That is Utah. And Utah and Washington are the only states whose constitution forbid religious instruction in the schools."

"On the other hand, 42 of the 48 state constitutions acknowledge God in their preambles and invoke His guidance in the establishment of their governments. I know of no state constitution that forbids the use of the Bible in the public schools."

Hickories, sequoias, magnolia and sassafras trees, so abundant in America, are found only in fossil form in the Old World.

Old "Party Line" To Do "Comeback"

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 4 — The old "party line" is going to come back in vogue.

The War Production Board today directed telephone companies to employ party line service in those instances where party line installation will conserve critical materials needed for the production of war materials.

The board also banned replacement of existing wall as desk type telephones with hand set and the installation of extension telephones in home except where they are for use of persons charged with responsibilities for the public health, welfare and security.

Lions Club Hears Dr. Bennett Talk About Australia

Delivers Fine Talk On Characteristics And Geography Of Country

Pinch-hitting for the speaker of the day, Prof. William L. Rainey of Grove City, who was unable to get through because of the snow, Dr. C. S. Bennett, pastor of the First Christian church, gave a splendid talk on Australia before the New Castle Lions club at its weekly luncheon meeting, Tuesday.

In proportion to its population of seven million people, he said Australia has more men in service than any other country, having a million men under arms, all volunteers, and all equipped by the home government.

Australia, he pointed out is larger than the United States, but much of the country is uninhabitable, and until recently there were no railroads or roads connecting the east with the west and the north with the south. In order to get from one point to another, it was necessary to go by boat.

Australia would be self-sustaining in event of attack, he said, as almost every kind of vegetable and fruit is grown in Australia that is grown elsewhere in the world. The climate is quite moderate, seldom freezes except in the mountains, but is handicapped because of a lack of rainfall. It raises more wheat than is needed to supply itself, and has a standing flock of 123 million sheep, compared to around 50 million in the United States.

His talk was much enjoyed and proved highly interesting to his hearers.

It is expected to have Mr. Rainey deliver his address next week.

Designing New Type House For Defense Workers

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, March 4—A $3,500 home for defense workers which will be the equivalent of a six-room house was revealed here by Frank Lloyd Wright, noted American architect, as one of his first contributions to national defense.

Wright disclosed that detailed plans for the unique homes have been accepted by the Federal Housing Authority.

Regarded by critics as perhaps the greatest achievement of the famous designer, the novel house has been dubbed "Usonian Cloverleaf." Cloverleaf, Wright explained, relates to his plan for constructing the homes in groups of four with back facing back so that each family will have maximum privacy.

"Usonian" is Wright's word for something inherently American. Despite their low cost, the new dwelling units will provide the "easy" dignified privacy and unconfused comfort of larger homes costing much more, Wright predicted. As many as two adults and five children can be accommodated easily in the new type structure, he said.

Brothers Reap Harvest In Jail For Wrong Crop

(International News Service)

DALLAS, Tex.—Two brothers—D. and R. E. Thomas—Ferris share croppers, today were sitting mournfully in a jail cell rueing the day they listened to a stranger sell them on the idea of planting a field of marijuana. And they'll be there for six months.

I. D. Thomas told Federal Judge T. Whitfield Davidson: "Judge, it all started when a Mexican gave me some seeds. He said plant them seeds and gib him half the crop. He said that stuff was good for asthma."

Thomas asserted that it seemed like a good business deal to him and that he and his brother planted the crop.

"De yield was powful good an' it didn't need no hovin' like cotton. In 'fac' Judge, we didn't chop it none."

And guess who were their first three customers. You're right: A Texas Ranger and two Federal narcotic agents.

In passing sentence the judge consoled the Thomas brothers with the news that their benefactor—the Mexican seed hander—outer had preceded them to jail.

Community Loan Directors Named

At a recently held meeting of the stockholders of the Community Loan Company, the following directors were re-elected: Dr. J. R. Cooper, P. J. Flaherty, Thomas H. Hartman, H. R. Huston, H. M. Kirk, George S. Long, D. A. Palmer, Dr. S. W. Perry Sr., J. W. Patterson, Emanuel Sherkas. The officers of the company are: P. J. Flaherty, president; Dr. S. W. Perry Sr., vice president; Dr. J. R. Cooper, vice president; A. J. Goldman, secretary and treasurer.

In order to take care of the growing demand of consumer financing a subsidiary for the loan company was organized under the title of The New Castle Consumer Discount Company. Since its organization the new company has enjoyed a steady and continuous growth. The offices of both companies are now located at 16 East street, in the building formerly occupied by the First Federal Savings & Loan Association.

Scouting Reviewed At Council Meeting

Local Girl Scout Council Hears Movement Of Girl Scouting At Tuesday Meeting

At Girl Scout Council meeting the following statement to Girl Scout councils on the thirtieth anniversary of the Girl Scout movement, which will be observed March 12, from Mrs. Alan H. Means, of Salt Lake City, Utah, Girl Scout national president, was read:

"Let us dedicate ourselves to averting war's greatest danger—the danger of neglect of the very thing for which the nation is fighting—our children and their future. Thousands of girls are eager to become scouts, and would be scouts if there were enough trained leaders, councils and sponsoring committees to go around. Thousands of women are seeking worthwhile ways to serve their country. We must tell them about scouting and show them how and why it provides opportunity to do an important, patriotic job. Girl scouting needs more volunteer workers so that it can serve all the girls in every part of the country. No girl is compelled to join the scouting movement—nor ever will be—but every girl should be able to join if she wants to. It's up to the women to keep the organization going and to help it grow so that it fulfills its purpose of bringing training, comradeship and opportunity to serve to all girls."

Tracing the growth of the movement from the original troop of twenty-four which Juliette Gordon Low organized on March 12, 1912, to its present membership of more than half a million Mrs. Means said, "This figure represents only four per cent of the girls of scout age in the United States. We have only begun! Thirty years of growth and development only point the way to the day when scouting will be available to every girl between seven and eighteen."

Mrs. Means stated that the movement had received great impetus in the first World War. "The Girl Scouts of 1917 won recognition as useful serious young citizens enrolled in an organization which was training them to meet the responsibilities of both present and future. Today, as well as twenty-five years ago, the Girl Scouts are active in defense work. They are again proving that Girl Scouting prepares them for useful service. Those of us who believe in scouting must not relax our efforts. In the midst of today's war we must pave the way for tomorrow's peace by helping girls face the immediate emergencies as well as the responsibilities of the future."

That the local Girl Scouts may have an opportunity to show this community how they are prepared for service, a demonstration of troop activities is being presented March 13, from 7 to 9 p. m. at the First Presbyterian church. The troop that has the largest percentage of adults registering for them on the guest book that night, will receive some Girl Scout equipment as a reward.

Farm Bloc Fight On Parity Prices Is Still Raging

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The farm bloc fight for parity prices continued to rage in congress, despite the action of senate farm leaders in withholding a parity amendment from the $33,000,000,000 farm appropriation measure, sent to the White House Monday.

As the house prepared to open debate on the $33,000,000,000 farm appropriation bill, the agriculture department supply bill, the agriculture committee called Secretary Wickard to explain his position in advocating the sale of government-held farm commodities at less than parity prices in an effort to hold market quotations down.

Rep. Fulmer (D) S. C., chairman of the agriculture committee, declared that Wickard will be questioned on his stand, which is opposed to provisions in the appropriations measure prohibiting the commodity credit corporation from selling commodities at less than parity.

Meanwhile, Rep. Taber (R) N. Y., ranking minority member of the agriculture appropriations committee, gave notice that he will vigorously oppose continuance of the farm security administration and the farm tenant program. Funds to continue both farm-aid agencies and provided in the supply bill.

Taber declared that $150,000,000 to $160,000,000 should "come out of this bill," adding, "certainly the farm security administration and the farm tenant programs should be abolished."

"The most important thing to the farmer in these times, while he is feeding the world, is to get rid of the agriculture surpluses which are a constant menace to his markets," Taber declared.

A rule on the appropriation measure, waiving the rights of house members from deleting portions of the measure on a technical point of order, was also headed for lengthy discussion on the house floor.

The rule, proposed in order to permit retention of parity provisions in the bill, will be opposed by anti-farm Republicans and Democrats in floor debate, it was learned.

Farm bloc members have been vigorously opposed by President Roosevelt and federal executive department heads, on the question of attaining parity at this time.

President Roosevelt, at a press conference, described the move as "reprehensible," while other opponents declared that the provision would raise the cost of living $1,000,000,000 a year and further contribute to inflation.

Auxiliary Police Officers Named

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, March 4.—As many as 30,000 to 40,000 auxiliary policemen will probably be appointed in the state to guard plants and private properties, Gov. Arthur H. James disclosed to the legislature in a special report on defense activities.

By Jan. 9, 1942, a total of 3,000 commissions for auxiliary policemen had been issued by the governor under the provisions of a 1917 law. The commissions will remain in force only during the war. The request for additional police came largely from railroads and utilities, the governor disclosed.

The governor detailed the highlights of Pennsylvania's effort in the national defense program from immediately prior to the declaration of war against this country by the Axis in a 20-page booklet.

"No matter how great the call for anything which this commonwealth possesses, the commonwealth has arisen and met the call and will continue to do so," the governor stated.

Still, if manufacturers had quit making cars two years ago, the nation would have rocked with wrath and ridicule.

Five American Ships Reach Africa After Hazardous Journey

Caught Asea At Outbreak Of War, Vessels Banded Together And Reached Port On Schedule

(International News Service)

AN AFRICAN PORT, March 4.—Five newly war-camouflaged over-loaded American freighters lay alongside the busy wharves while African hand labor and imported cranes struggled under the winter sun to unload them.

All had proudly discarded the American flag emblems previously painted on their sides to show their neutrality on the early stages of their voyage from the Arsenal of Democracy to the African front. From their mastheads new or battered Stars and Stripes fluttered in the light winter zephyr that twirled the dry sands and cooled the sun's effect.

Ships Mass for Protection

Caught in various positions on the ocean by America's declaration of war, these five ugly, resurrected-from-the-graveyard-of-ships, freighters had massed themselves together for mutual protection without naval escort, and had sailed on schedule into this African port as the first American convoy of the war.

The huge cranes hauled off aircraft—models already famous here in operations and others reckoned to be more so. From the quayside trained allied tank crews roared off in their new American tanks almost as fast as their bulk could be transferred from deck to dock.

Tank and aircraft parts and supplies; machineguns by the thousands; ammunition in the millions of rounds, all bespoke America's efforts to keep her chosen friends armed and supplied. Each of these ships had arrived with an overload of supplies—mostly fighting supplies—but a few hundred tons, taken up in odd out-of-the-way places aboard ship difficult to load, had been devoted to the thinning peace-time trade between America and Africa.

Beer and Stockings

There was canned beer—tons of it! Silk stockings by the thousands and thousands of pairs! New shiny American automobiles designed for civilian use—when the fighting forces need every vehicle available! Soaps, cosmetics, toilet articles—the last vestiges of peacetime trade unless odd-lot cargoes will be permitted to fill odd-shaped cargo holds. These vessels had left New York a neutral harbor at peace. They would return to find it one of the world's most important war bases.

With their neutrality stripped from their sides, and flying their flag of action, the ships had to be armed for the return journey home. The right type of guns were scarce, but the problem was easily solved.

Borrow Guns from Stock

Lease-lend materials, their cargoes had been, so the captains received authority to borrow from their holds to arm themselves. It was good to see those Americans fondly mounting their guns—somehow they all knew how the guns worked!—to defend these refitted hulks saved from scrap that had many times brought valuable supplies from the skyscrapers of New York to the sagebrush, desert and limestone bluff panorama of this port.

The loads of these five ships were estimated to cover a major portion of General Auchinleck's losses in the Libyan campaign.

The American crews were eager to go off for home, some to join the army, others the navy and still others to keep sailing the supply lines of the world for the United Nations.

MAY CALL MEN IN AGE GROUPS

Selective Service Officials Are Considering Plans For This Move

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 4.—National selective service officials disclosed today that they are making plans to allow the army to call up men by age groups.

However, the army has not yet indicated whether it planned to take such a step, and selective service authorities explained that it would be June, at least, before the plan can be put into effect.

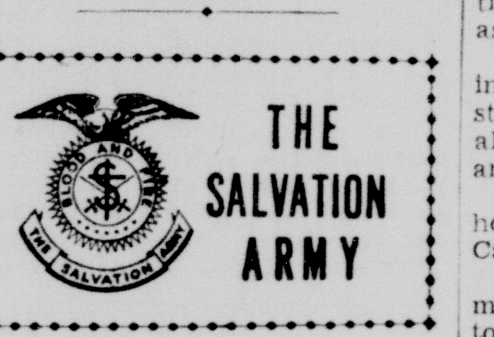

Under the new proposal, the army could call up younger men from the front ranks or older men for desk jobs to release younger personnel now in the army for field duty.

It was also said that the plan is broad enough to allow the army to call up all the 20-year olds registered under the second draft act last month. Approximately 1,000,000 in that age bracket registered, and about 800,000 men between the ages of 36 and 44, inclusive, also signed up for possible military duty. However, local draft boards will not start classifying the 9,000,000 new registrants until after the third national draft lottery of the present war on March 17. The classification is not expected to be completed until June.

Registrants under the second draft act will be placed at the end of the list of the 17,000,000 men between the ages of 21 and 35 inclusive, who registered under the first draft act in 1940 and 1941.

However, under the new plan, if the army desired, the 20 year olds could be moved up to the head of the list since there were no youths of that age registered earlier. The lottery 14 days hence thus would determine only the order in which persons of age groups would be called up if the age group plan is adopted by the army.

It also was pointed out that the age group plan would allow the navy, which wants younger men, to use the draft system if necessary. So far, the navy has depended on voluntary enlistments.

Once again we go into the war picture and see what is being done in our local venture especially in regard to the U.S.O. activities. The next four Salvation Army articles will deal exclusively with the U.S.O. and particularly the Salvation Army's connection with them. Further details will be given upon request.

Article One

The U.S.O. club operated by The Salvation Army at Lewes, Del., was hailed by Governor Walter W. Bacon as "the first servicemen's club for a military area of less than 5,000 men" at its dedication November 25.

Located in a building owned by a local fire company, this club will serve the coast artillerymen who maintain a lonely vigil covering Delaware Bay from Fort Miles, Fort Saulsbury and other points.

As virtually the entire town was turning out for the opening ceremonies a Coast Guard cutter docked at the water front, bearing the Cape May U.S.O. Council and the Cape May U.S.O. club directors, Adjutant and Mrs. Theodore Thompson, from twelve miles across Delaware Bay.

History Made Here

Lewes, which the Dutch settled in 1631, is rich in patriotic fervor, and here was "cradled the State of Delaware," according to Bancroft, the historian. From this town during the Revolutionary War, Caesar Rodney, "the Delaware Paul Revere," began his famous ride into Philadelphia, after his attempt to quell Tory uprisings.

Stirred by these traditions, Major and Mrs. William Kilfohn, the club directors, plunged at once into their task of making life easier for the defenders of an important shoreline.

MORE COLLEGE PREXIES

(International News Service) EASTON, Pa.—Lafayette college claims that the distinction of having turned out more college presidents during the past 15 years than any other institution in the United States. Since Dr. William Mather Lewis became president of Lafayette in 1926, five members of the faculty, three of them deans and two other members of the department of religion, have been elevated to head institutions of higher learning.

SALVAGE SCRAP VITAL SOURCE OF WAR MATERIALS

HARRISBURG, March 4.—Potential guns and cartridges, possibly a light tank or two, and important parts of great bombing planes are lying idle now in backyards, attics, cellars and on farms.

The Advisory Salvage Committee of the State Council of Defense, is relying on these sources of waste materials to carry on Pennsylvania's part in the nationwide Salvage Program to bolster impending shortages of needed scrap for defense industries.

Waste paper, scrap metals, old rubber and old rags are the basic materials which citizens of Pennsylvania are being asked to save and turn over to either scrap dealers or goodwill agencies to keep waste materials flowing into defense industries.

Salvage experts of the Bureau of Industrial Conservation of the U. S. War Production Board estimate that several hundred tons of discarded tools, broken or obsolete household equipment, unused kettles, garden implements, old tire chains and other metal scrap, which would help fill the widening gap between the supply of essential metal and the ever-increasing demand, can be found in the average city.

Lead for rifle and machine gun bullets, for shrapnel and for manufacture of high octane gasoline to feed the present 400-mile-an-hour planes can be salvaged from worn-out automobile batteries, obsolete or broken plumbing and heating units, and other scrapped household equipment.

Zinc needed for propellers for battleships and for essential parts of tanks and trucks can be reclaimed from old wash basins and buckets, galvanized wire, and tin roofing. Brass doorknobs, candlesticks, fire irons, and ash trays which are no longer of use will yield an average of 30 per cent zinc for war industries.

Old tires and tubes, discarded rubber boots and overshoes, waste paper and cardboard, rags of every type and all scrap metal will help make the "Salvage for Victory Program" a success in Pennsylvania and keep war industries working at maximum speed, the State Council's Advisory Committee declared.

Marine Detachment Will Secure Charter

Charter Will Be Officially Presented During Sunday, March 15, Meeting

During a recent meeting of the New Castle Harry T. Burns detachment of the U. S. Marine League, final arrangements were made to secure a charter.

It was announced that the charter will be presented officially during the next meeting.

Special aims of the detachment are: Bring closer men who have served in the Marines and men who are now serving.

To keep in close touch with men serving and to inform families of the men in service as much as possible.

Parents of local men who have enlisted here can take out a membership for their boys by paying the initial dues of 75 cents. No additional fees will be required, so long as the men are on active duty.

Plans were made during the meeting held at 126½ East Washington street, to purchase league caps and also to secure a flag and a standard.

The detachment was named in honor of former Mayor of New Castle, Gy. Sgt. Harry T. Burns.

Persons interested in securing membership are asked to get in touch with Joe Pearson, Pearson Brick company; Staff Sergeant John L. Dean, second floor of post office building; Cecil Suber, local police department.

The next meeting will be held on Sunday, March 15, at 8 o'clock at 126½ East Washington street. The rooms are headquarters of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

PREDICTS ALLIED VICTORY

(International News Service)

NEW ORLEANS—Recalling how suddenly the German war machine cracked up in World War I, Major General John Hay Beith predicted in New Orleans recently that an allied victory in the current war will follow a Nazi crackup from within. General Beith, former director of public relations for the war office in London, is now on an American lecture tour.

Kiwanis Show Features Chorus

Are Rehearsing Daily For Sparkling Arrangements
Of Popular Songs

An adult chorus of forty-eight voices is in daily rehearsal preparing sparkling arrangements of today's most popular songs for the Kiwanis Show "Hocus Pocus" to be presented at the Cathedral Thursday and Friday nights, March 12 and 13.

The singers in the chorus have been selected from the graduate A-Capella choir under the direction of Robert A. Duff. To this group has been added solo and chorus voices from other sources. The songs sung are first introduced by soloists followed by the modern chorus singing. Earl Hammond sings "Twenty-One Dollars A Day Since A Month"; Jack Jones will sing "Rose O'Day"; Howard Warknock "Modern Design"; Aniel Lejenko "Deep In The Heart Of Texas"; and James Bowman will sing the only ballad in the second act "White Cliffs Of Dover."

Comedy for the second act presentation will be supplied by Aniel Lejenko, Presley Jones, Howard Warknock, Jack Jones and John Bonfield.

Tickets are now on sale by the cast members which number two hundred strong. "Hocus Pocus" is a double feature show, the first act being made up of twelve short review type scenes while the second act is built along modern presentation style.

Burgette, the professional magician, is featured in several spots in the first act and continues his comedy spirit scenes in act two. Those who have witnessed rehearsals come back with the report that this will be the finest show New Castle has had in many a day. Indication are that the show will be sold out for both nights as over 400 tickets have already been distributed.

Jacob Jones Also

Sunk By U-Boat
In Other War

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, March 4.—The U. S. S. Jacob Jones, an American destroyer which was sunk by an enemy submarine off Cape May, N. J., Saturday, was the namesake of the only war vessel sunk by torpedoes during the first World War, navy officials recalled today. Navy officials said that the original Jacob Jones, which was sunk Dec. 6, 1917, not only was the first American destroyer to be lost in the last war but the only vessel of the U. S. fleet to be torpedoed in that conflict.

Two officers and 62 men lost their lives in that sinking.

German Press

Starts Admitting Soviet Strength

Also Hint At Possibility Of British Invasion Of Scandinavia

(International News Service)

BERNE, Switzerland, March 4.—The German press Tuesday acknowledged the gigantic strength of Soviet Russia's attacking armies and began to hint at the possibility of a British invasion of Scandinavia. The Berlin correspondent of the Neue Zuercher Zeitung said that German official circles were keenly interested in the demand made in New York recently by Soviet Ambassador Maxim Litvinov for a "second front."

"For the first time in a long while," the correspondent said, "German circles are acknowledging Swedish neutrality."

In this connection the authoritative German newspaper Hamburger Fremdenblatt referred to strengthening of the Swedish army and the call-up of reserve troops.

The Stockholm correspondent of the Zurich National Zeitung reported feverish Nazi military preparations in Norway. Only one train a day is now reserved for civilians on the Oslo-Bergen route and there are similar restrictions on other lines. Increased Russo-German military activity on the Murmansk front was reported.

With regard to the German situation in Russia, the Berlin correspondent of the Zurich Zeitung wrote:

"Berlin circles which a short time ago spoke of the 'final consolidations' of the German positions seem not to have expected a Russian offensive of the present violence."

"Operations on a grand scale are again possible. The Russian offensive is being carried out along the entire front."

Viereck's Attorney

Is Disqualified To Continue In Case

Court Takes Action On Tuesday After Statements

By Attorney

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Justice F. Dickenson Letts, presiding judge in the federal court trial of Nazi agent George Sylvester Viereck Tuesday afternoon, disqualified Viereck's attorney—Emil Morosini, Jr., from further participation in the case after he had accused the justice of bias.

The action came a short time after the defense had rested its case without calling Viereck to the witness stand. Viereck is on trial for failing to reveal full details of his activities to the State Department. As soon as the defense rested, Morosini had bitterly assailed Justice Letts, declaring:

"I charge that your honor is biased in favor of the government."

Disqualification was ordered following a conference between Justice Letts and attorneys for both the prosecution and the defense, with the jury out of the room. The jurors later were brought back, told to report again Wednesday for resumption of the case.

Later in his chambers, Justice Letts explained his action against Morosini.

"He was told that he could not participate any further in the proceedings for using intemperate language at the time the defense rested its case by charging the court was biased and prejudiced," the justice said.

"In my opinion that remark was made to influence the jury—the inference being that the government would not permit the defense to present any evidence."

Viereck's case will now be handled by Daniel F. Cohalan, Jr., Morosini's law partner, and Col. O. R. Maguire.

REFINING COMPANY EMPLOYEES BURNED RESULT OF BLAST

(International News Service)

PORT ARTHUR, Tex., March 4.—
Twenty-five employees of the Atlantic Refining company were injured
Tuesday when a violent explosion shook the refinery and surrounding territory for several miles. Two of the injured were reported in serious condition.

Several plant officials were among those hurt. Nearly all the injured were scorched and burned. The fire was extinguished quickly.

The blast was said to have followed a blowout of packing on a hot oil pump. Extent of the damage was not estimated immediately.

Turner Praised For His Service

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 4.—State
Rep. Ellwood J. Turner, Delaware county Republican and house minority leader, was described by Speaker
Elmer Kilroy, a Democrat, Tuesday as a "credit to his state and party."

Turner, candidate for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor, cannot file nominations for two offices at the same time, Kilroy explained, and his 18 years' service in the house will end this year.

NEW HIGH-SPEED AIRLINER TO CARRY 57 PASSENGERS

This is the first view of the Lockheed Constellation, giant high-speed airliner being built at the Lockheed Aircraft corporation plant in Burbank, Cal., for Transcontinental and Western Airlines. The ship will carry 57 passengers and a crew of seven. Capable of top speed of 350 miles an hour, it will have a 4,000-mile range and will fly at 30,000 feet. The new transport, fuselage of which is shown above, will be powered by four 2,500-horsepower engines. Cost of construction is $500,000.

Nazis Protest Treatment of Foes

According to the story released with this photo by Soviet authorities and the British Ministry of Information, these German prisoners are signing a protest against the brutal treatment meted out to Soviet war prisoners in German camps. British Parachute Troops Raid French Coast

British parachute troops and heavily armed infantry carried out a successful surprise invasion 100 miles across the English Channel, raiding the German radio station at Bruneval, near Le Havre, France. British soldiers are shown searching the Nazis for hidden articles of military value. It was a combined Army, Navy and Air Force operation. This picture was flashed by radio from London to New York.

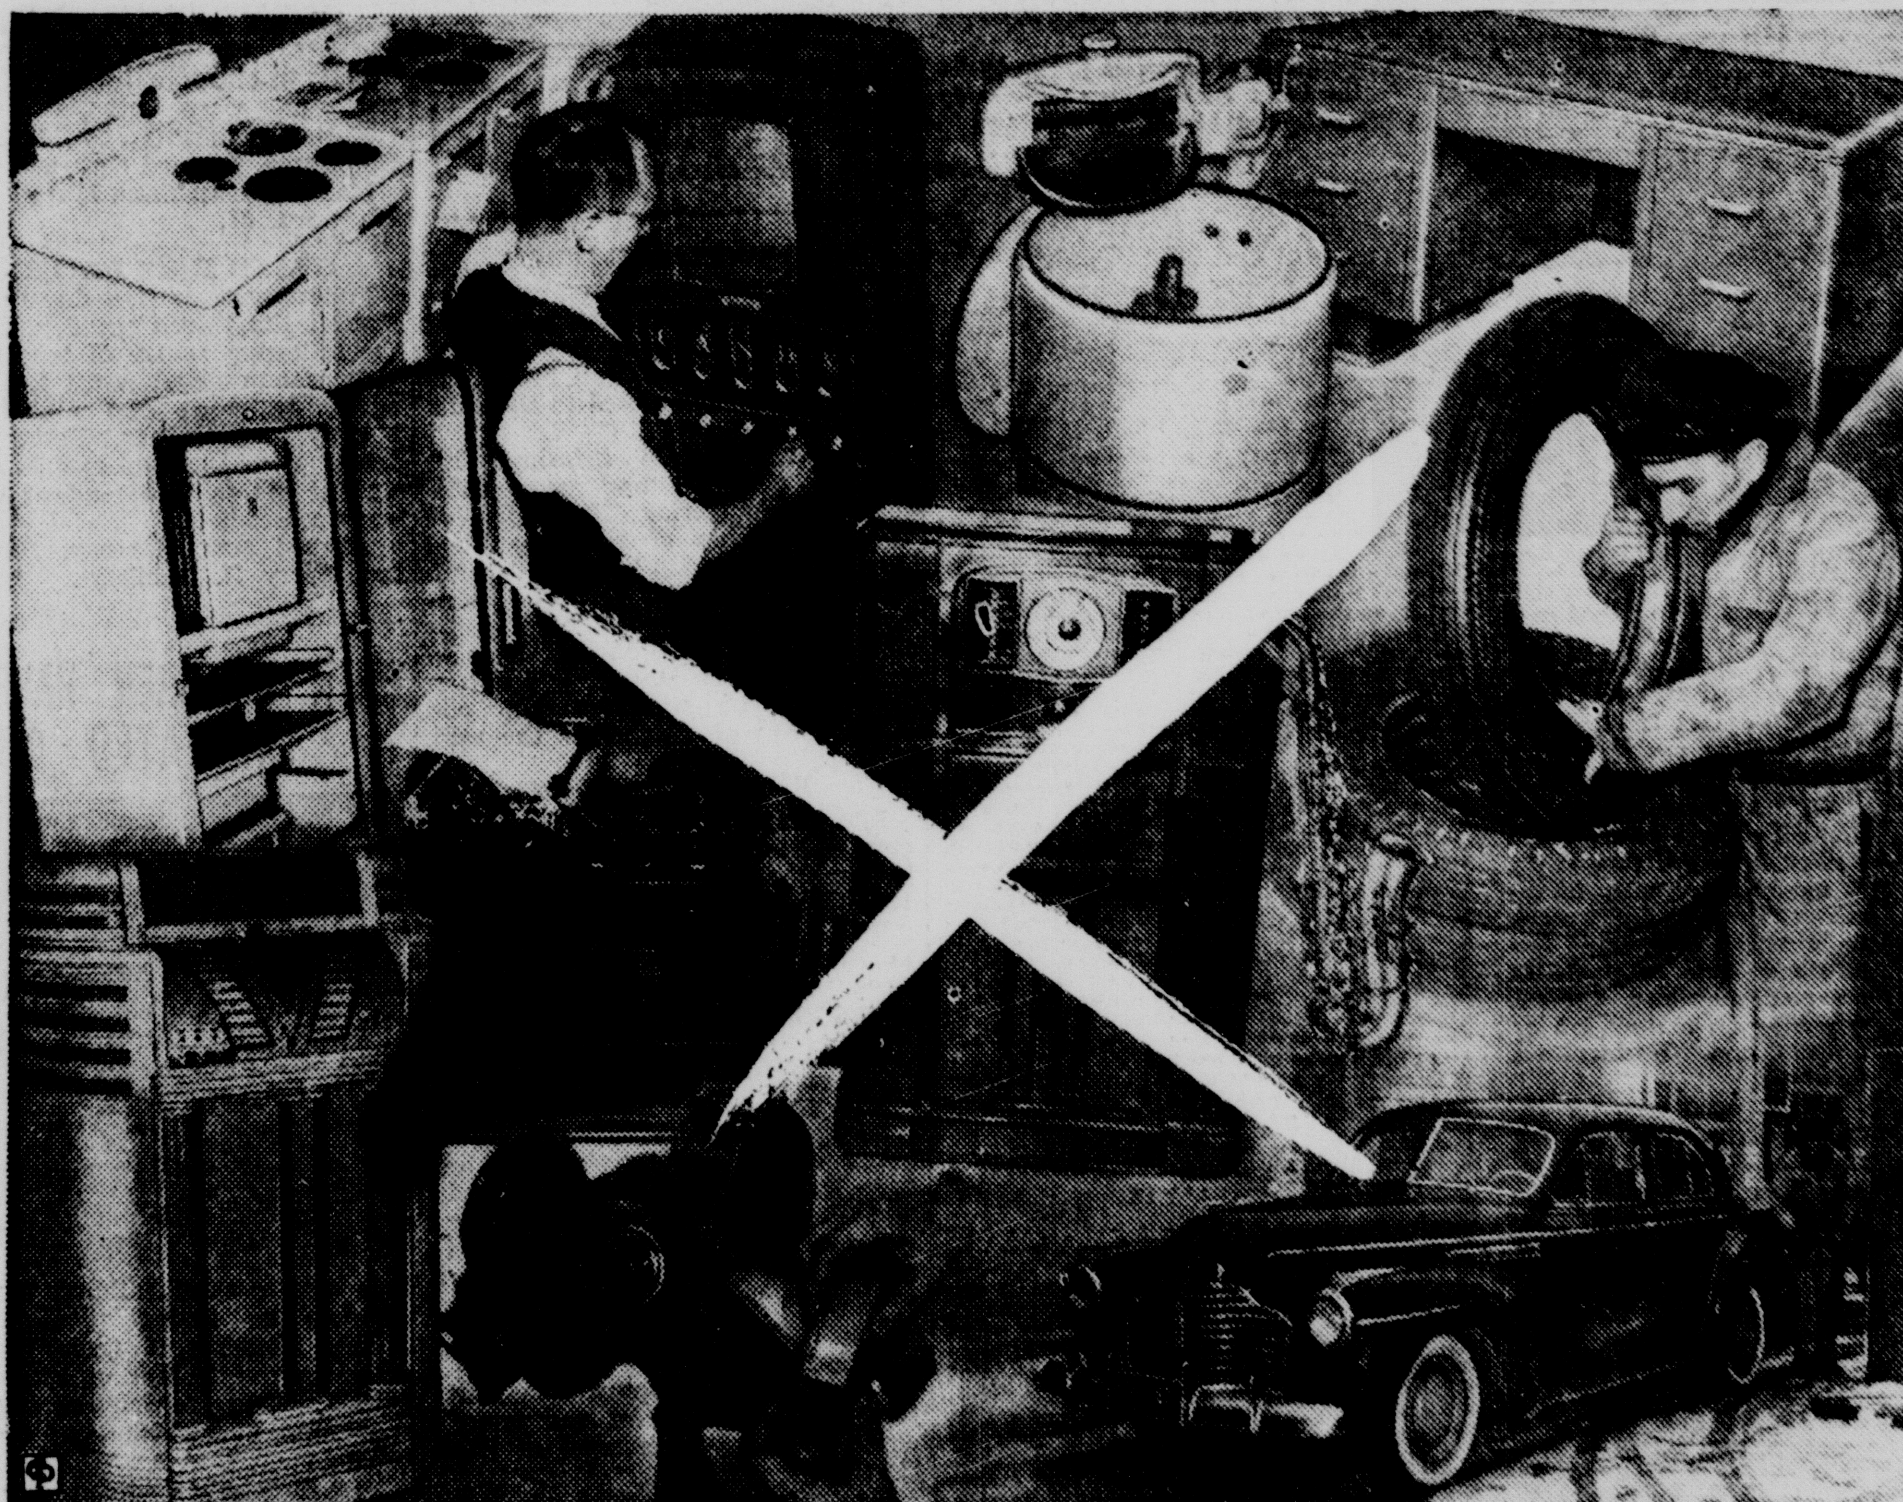

UNITED NATIONS TROOPS, INCLUDING YANKS, FIGHT JAP INVADERS HERE

Reports from Java indicate that Japanese forces attempting to invade the principal island of the Dutch East Indies are meeting the strongest resistance they have encountered anywhere in the Far Eastern war theater. Arrows on the map, right, indicate the three main points of invasion. American, Dutch, British and Australian ground, air and sea forces have combined in an attempt to drive the invaders back into the sea. Bandoeng is the military headquarters of the United Nations in the Far East. Approach of sea-borne Japanese troops toward the coast of Java was the signal for a smashing attack by Allied sea and air forces. Reported Japanese losses of ships and men were very heavy. Shortly after the Japanese had effected a landing Allied defenders launched a counter-attack.

Governor James' War Power Bill Is Killed

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, March 4.—With the administration's war powers bill definitely killed, sentiment among Senate Republican leaders appeared today to be crystallizing behind a plan for piecemeal revision of laws interfering with the prosecution of the war.

Added to this was considerable backing for a continuous session, with the General Assembly recessing subject to recall as occasion warranted, said Senate Majority Leader James A. Getz.

A committee of four senators, headed by Getz and President Pro Tem of the Senate Charles H. Ealy, visited Governor Arthur H. James in an effort to work out a substitute for the chief executive's proposal that he be authorized to suspend existing laws, subject to the recommendations of the State Defense Council.

The committee was unable to reach an agreement with the governor. Getz said the chief executive felt it would be an "unending task" to revise specific laws and reiterated he considered his state defense council suggestion the best method of tackling the problem.

Governor James placed no obstacle in the way of the Senate adopting its own plan, however, said Getz, explaining that "the governor said it is entirely our own responsibility."

To Receive Suggestions
Getz said he expected to receive, probably today, suggestions from department heads as to what laws they think should be modified for the duration of the war, plus "problems" received from them by the governor.

A decision will then be reached, he stated, whether to amend the laws individually or through an omnibus measure.

No decision has yet been reached, he added, whether to adjourn sine die after that or to recess, subject to recall "when circumstances required our presence." Considerable sentiment for a recess existed at a Republican caucus, said Getz, but he did not know whether a majority favored it.

A continuous session could be held at no added cost to the state, he said, as "it is apparent the legislature will have to remain in session anyway for more than a month." That will require the payment of an additional $250 to legislators, who receive $500 for the first month of the special session and the additional compensation for any time after that.

"Could Easily Quit"

Ealy said, "We could easily quit in a month," but conceded it looked unlikely that this would be done. He agreed with Getz that "we ought to pass the bills that we know ought to be passed." That's the first thing, he said. After that, he thought, the legislature could delegate to someone the power to suspend additional laws. Getz said he was opposed to the latter suggestion.

At his press conference, following his meeting with the Senate committee, the governor stated he "did not contemplate recalling" the legislature in the event it failed to approve his bill. But, he added, "no one knows in these trying days what the future has in store for us."

The governor said he had received a request from the U. S. maritime commission for the amendment of state laws dating back to 1787 and 1847 which interfered with the loading of ammunition on ships in the Delaware river. He cited this as one instance of the difficulty facing the legislature if it amended specific laws and then adjourned. "Who would have thought," he asked, "that these laws require amending?"

Need Law Changes

As another example he cited a notice received from the federal sugar administrator that the state would be unable to buy sugar this year in bulk as supplies for state institutions will be rationed. This will require changing the purchasing law, which now specifies competitive bidding before supplies can be bought.

Both houses had slim calendars. The Senate approved 40-5 a constitutional amendment, sponsored by the local government commission, removing from the legislature the authority to fix the salaries of local government officers and employees, such as firemen and police. Sen. John H. Dent (D) Westmoreland, pungently called it "a measure to take the legislature off the spot." The home rule measure now goes to the House. If approved there it must be enacted also by the 1943 legislature and then submitted to the electorate.

The Senate also approved and forwarded to the House a bill authorizing the Highways Department to replace or repair bridges in third class cities deemed necessary for national defense.

The House enacted one bill, a measure extending to 20 days before a special election the time for filing nominations. Nominations must now be filed within 10 days after an election writ is issued. The bill now goes to the Senate for concurrence.

'Keeping Up With Joneses' Is Goal For All Americans

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, March 4.—If the rest of America "keeps up with the Joneses," Uncle Sam shouldn't have too much trouble winning this war—and the peace that follows.

The Joneses are: Papa Philip Jones, Mama Jones and four children—Newell, 24; Philip, Jr., 22; Barbara, 20; and Carol, 17. They're from Shelton, Conn., and they won the third national Gimbel Award and a check for $1,000.

A scroll accompanying the check described the family as "typical of countless families in these United States who are doing their magnificent bit in their daily living and in their communities for freedom and defense."

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt originally suggested that a family instead of an individual receive the award. A committee member picked the Joneses, and an investigator lined up these facts about the Connecticut farm dwellers.

Philip Jones works a dairy farm, arising at 5 a. m. daily to help milk 30 cows. He's on the local defense committee and he's trying to increase production as his contribution toward winning the war.

Mrs. Jones belongs to the women's defense committee, has a large garden of her own, is a member of the

President Of Local School Board Addresses Group At Dinner-Meeting Tuesday Evening

Tuesday evening members of the Knights of Columbus dinner club gathered in their club rooms, North Jefferson street, for their first meeting in March.

As guest speaker, Dr. Arthur B. Foster, president of the New Castle school board, and likewise, a member of the state school directors board, addressed the gathering, in a most interesting and enlightening manner on the activities of the local school board.

Dr. Foster recalled to the listeners' minds the growth of our local school district from the one-room schools to the new present day system staffed by 312 teachers with an approximate investment of nine million dollars. The preparation of a tentative budget was discussed at length. The high standards set for entrance into our trade schools was stressed. Dr. Foster stressed the point that "labor should be just as dignified, just as noble and just as upright as any other profession and should be rightly regarded as such."

Following the regular business meeting plans were made for the next meeting which will be held on St. Patrick's Day with James Steiner in charge.

The meeting last evening was in charge of John Gallagher.

Akron Sailor Was On AEF Convoy

Quite a number of New Castle will be interested in knowing that Frederick Kaufman, 22, of North Barborton, Ohio, a suburb of Akron, was on a U. S. destroyer that recently helped convoy the first American troops to Northern Ireland.

Kaufman is a cousin of Eddie Jessell of 1028 Maryland avenue, a city fireman, and has visited in New Castle innumeral times. Kaufman states that the ships did not sight any enemy subs or "rates" as the sailors referred to subs of the enemy. Kaufman says that it is exciting riding a destroyer ready for a battle at any moment. Robert Kaufman, a brother, also known to many in this city is in the U. S. Army stationed at Fort Knox, in the radio communications division.

SEVENTH WARD NEWS

Columbus Auxiliary Plans Dinner Event

Tuesday evening members of the Christopher Columbus Auxiliary met in the St. Margaret's hall, North Liberty street, with president, Mrs. Stella Lombardo, in charge at 7 o'clock.

At this time, plans were discussed for a dinner event, to take place after the Lenten season at The Castleton. A committee has been appointed by Mrs. Lombardo to plan the arrangements, and includes the following: Julia Augustine, Mrs. Rose DeDario, Mrs. Rose Rotunno, Mrs. Elizabeth DeVivo, Mrs. Mary Zumpella, Mrs. Margaret DeCarbo, Mrs. Mary Beatrice, Mrs. Mary Castaldi, Mrs. Viola Cubellis and Mrs. Teresa DePiero.

Important matters were discussed, and the regular social period and refreshments were not held due to the observance of Lent. Tuesday, April 7, is the date for the next regular meeting.

Berean Class Met Tuesday Night

Mrs. Charles Hammond, of 307 North Lafayette street, entertained the Berean Bible Class, of the Madison Avenue Christian church, on Tuesday evening, at her home, when there was a good attendance.

Devotions were in charge of Mrs. John M. Bevan.

Mrs. Ada Robinson presided at the business meeting.

A splendid lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by the co-hostesses, Mrs. Ada Robinson.

Mrs. Lottie Badger was a special guest.

The next meeting will be Tuesday evening, April 6.

NOVENA FOR "BOYS" IN SERVICE CONTINUES

Considering the present inclement weather, a fair crowd attended the novena for the men in service, which is being conducted every Tuesday evening in St. Margaret's church.

The Rev. Fr. Michael P. Hinnebusch, pastor of the church, was in charge of the services. Names of the "boys" in the armed forces of our country are being collected, and the booklet, "Pray With Us," will be sent to them, with the hope that they use them in praying.

The novena will continue next Tuesday evening.

CLASS MEETING PLACE CHANGED

Instead of meeting at the home of Mrs. Fred Flowers, as scheduled, the McCoy Bible class will meet with Mrs. George Kutz, of 311 West Madison avenue, on Thursday evening.

BOYS "CLEAN UP"

There is an old saying, "It's an ill wind that blows nobody good." The heavy snowfall was a bonanza to many of the schoolboys in the ward, who made good use of the time out during the day from school. Teams of boys could be seen in various sections of the ward working diligently cleaning off portions of sidewalks, and enjoying the work. Of course, there was some pay connected with the jobs. One boy, who seemed quite tired, and was resting late in the afternoon, had earned two dollars. The chances are with that boy that he will get somewhere in his life.

STORM RESULTS

On account of the heavy continuous fall of snow of Monday night and Tuesday, travelling was arduous in the ward and vicinity. There was a day off declared for the school pupils, and it was whispered around by some of them that they hoped Wednesday would be another holiday.

TO MEET THURSDAY

Members of the Sons and Daughters of St. Margaret's society will have their regular meeting Thursday evening at 5:30 o'clock, in the St. Margaret's hall, North Liberty street.

President, Mrs. Florence Domenick will be in charge at the session. The time was originally scheduled for 7 o'clock.

TRIANGLE SOCIETY

Miss Pearl Olson, of West Cherry street, will entertain the Triangle Missionary society on Friday evening. Miss Barbara Johnson will be co-hostess.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY

Friday afternoon the Women's Missionary society will be entertained at the home of Mrs. John M. Bevan, 901 West Clayton street, at 2:30, when Mrs. W. W. Waid will be leader.

BEAVER PATROL

This evening there will be an important meeting of the Beaver patrol, Boy Scouts troop V-4, at the home of Clair E. Arble, of 313 North Cedar street.

SEVENTH WARD PERSONALS

Anthony Bullano, of Farrell, formerly of this city, is visiting with friends in the ward.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Boblin and family, of Sixth street, are moving to Youngstown, where the former is employed.

Harry Hilliard of West Clayton street, who has been ill at his home, is much improved and returned to his employment.

Paul Stodolak, of North Ashland avenue, has returned to his home from the New Castle Hospital, where he received treatment.

Luella Mielke, of North Cedar street, who has been undergoing treatment at the Jameson Memorial Hospital, has returned to her home.

Packed Snow And Ice Causes Most Skidding

HARRISBURG, March 4.—Although new snow is slippery and hard to drive through when it is deep, T. Elmer Transeau, state director of highway safety, today declared the greatest peril in skidding comes with hard packed snow or ice resulting from traffic.

When you start skidding over a surface of packed snow or treacherous ice, a set of tire chains in the rear compartment of your car might just as well be home in the garage.

Inadequate traction and obscured vision, he pointed out, are mainly responsible for traffic tieups and winter mishaps which hinder the nation's war work. He advised drivers to be sure that their lights are adequate, and that their windshield wipers and defrosters are ship-shape during a storm or severe cold.

"The truth of the adage 'An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure' is perhaps more pronounced today when applied to winter driving, than when first conceived. Those few minutes spent in applying chains to the rear tires may prove worth a lifetime, since the traffic death rate goes up 40 per cent during winter months, and skidding has been proven the primary hazard. It is better to bend your back putting on chains, than have it bent around the steering wheel from a skidding wreck. One skid may cost a life—yours, or the fellow in the other car."

Following the address by Mayor Spagnola, which was well received by the group, the members assembled in a local bowling recreation hall, where the games continued. On Tuesday, March 17, the next meeting will be held by the club.

Barbados, British West Indies, is a one-crop area and the entire economy of the island is linked to the sugar industry, says the department of commerce.

ditions of the present era of stress, the fall of the Roman Empire, the start of the dark ages on to the renaissance around the 12th century—this taking place over a period of three centuries. Many of our predecessors gave cultures to the world, and in these lines which we know as civilization, we have done much.

Spiritually and intellectually we have completed nothing or very little, as we have not produced great men as Socrates, Aristotle and Virgil and many others. Lack of understanding and respect of fellow beings is the cause for the present crisis, and the thought to be left in mind is "what will happen to the white race because of the yellow peril." Titans Gain Revenge; Repel Duquesne, 37-34

Torrid Battle Witnessed By 1,347 Frenzied Spectators Tuesday Night

RIDL, WASIK STAR FOR WESTMINSTER

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, March 4.—In a torrid cage battle that overtaxed the nerves of 1,347 flushed spectators, Westminster's popular Titans squared 1941-42 accounts with Duquesne university, repelling the celebrated Dukes by a 37-34 margin, Tuesday night in New Wilmington.

The setto was a typical Titan-Duke clash in which everything can and usually does happen. The victory hung in the balance until the biggest gallery to ever file into Titan gymnasium.

Play Is Fierce

Play was so fierce that two players, Dale Dunmire, the Titans' classy guard, twisted his right ankle before the opening half ended and had to be carried off the hardwood. "Billy" Cantner, Duquesne substitute, injured his shoulder and had to retire in the fourth. Two of the rival performers got into a minor tussle which brought the usual result, a near free for all, which was nipped in the bud.

After trailing, an exceptionally slick and clever Westminster five, "Chief" Davies' proteges finally hit their stride in the final five minutes of action. Consequently, the gallery was treated to the kind of thrills usually flashed across the silver screen.

Fred Miller, who got into the Titan lineup in the second period, boosted the localites' lead to 29-22 by converting one out of two fouls in the fourth period started. McLinn, Westminster substitute, swished the nets for two points from the side. Vojtko muffed a free toss as the timepiece had clicked off the first two minutes. Westminster led, 31-22.

Duquesne Rallyes

Joe Camie, held scoreless from the field for 34 minutes, pivoted around and tasted scoring cake. With the Dukes trying 31-24, slim Camie arched a pretty one-handed shot from near the foul circle. With 5:20 still left, Noszka heaved a snappy pass to Penzelik who was alone under the hoop. He scored easily. The Lawrence countians' margin now was 31-28.

"Buzz" Ridl, last night's star in capital letters, stole the spheroid from a Duke man, dribbled toward the south goal and scored with 4:20 to go. Camie revived the Dukes' hope with another sensational left-handed shot, chopping the Titans' lead to 33-30. Following Coach Davies' orders to shoot, Stan Noszka fired from deep center. The shot was perfect. With 3:25 to go and Westminster leading by a mere 33-32, the fans were wild.

Dunmire went into the game again, replacing Miller. The injured Titan guard, however, was forced to hobble off the court after seeing less than a half minute of action. When play was resumed, Camie flipped another one-handed shot, giving Duquesne the lead, 34-33, for the first time since midway in the second.

Titans Regain Lead

With a minute and a half left, Ridl was fouled under the Duquesne hoop. He missed the shot. Charles "Goldie" Goldblum, however, leaped in the air, won the ball and canned a timely one-handed fielder.

tutes, Fred Miller and Charles "Goldie" Goldblum, played an important hand. The Titans were good, they had to be.

Joe Camie and Bernie Fowle were the big shots for the losers. Westminster, which crossed the Dukes by presenting a man-to-man defense instead of the usual zone, took advantage of 17 fouls out of 24 tosses, while the losers connected 8 times out of 15.

The winners fired 55 shots during the evening while the Pittsburghers rattled the hoops 62 times. The triumph brings Westminster's total to 15 out of 20.

The district rivals, meeting for the 20th time in a series that started in 1921, played snappy and methodically in the opening chapter. Fowle's shot under the hoop gave the Dukes a 2-0 lead in the first 10 seconds. With four minutes gone, Dale Dunmire chalked up the Titans' opening score, a foul after Ridl's foul miss. Wask took the rebound and laid in a device.

Fowle got a tip-in shot to tie the count 4 all. Dunmire's foul again gave Westminster the lead, but Camie popped in a free throw to even matters. Penzelik's long fling from the side netted the invaders a 7-5 edge as the first period closed.

Duquesne Leads, 11-8

The Washbaughmen started their spree early in the second, Wask canning a pair of Annie Oakleys. Fowle's gain, Wask converted, giving the Titans an 8-7 margin. Fowle cut in beautifully on Penzelik's pass and scored, the Dukes leading the caravan at 9-8. Goggin got two free heaves and padded the Bluff's lead, 11-8.

Ridl was awarded two fouls, one a technical, and plunked one of the shots. Miller brought the Titan cheering section to its feet with a sensational one-handed fling from the side and came back seconds later to record a foul, giving the blue and white entry a 12-11 lead. Two fouls, Vojtko and Penzelik on the shooting end, tied up matters at 13 all.

Goldblum came in for Westminster. Penzelik scored a foul which shifted the lead to the Dukes' side, 14-13. Joe Spak fired from long range and connected, the Titans taking a 15-14 lead which mounted when Wask and Dunmire rimmed fouls. Fred Miller got into the Titans' lineup. With Westminster leading 17-14, Miller got two free tosses but missed both.

On the next play, Dunmire, in dribbling down the floor, ran into a Duquesne player and twisted his ankle. He was carried off the floor. Miller's pretty fielder under the hoop boosted the Titans' edge to 19-14 as the half closed.

With Fowle, Camie and Noszka each charged with three personals at halftime, the Duquesne players were forced to play cautiously in the third. Wask poured in two more points on Goldblum's accurate pass under the hoop. Penzelik marked up one out of two fouls, the Dukes now trailing 21-15.

Titans Pad Lead

Miller snared a free ball, dribbled toward the south goal and scored. Wask came back seconds later with a one-handed shot outside the foul circle to play the Titans' lead, 26-15. Fowle's shot under the hoop but Wask came back with two fouls as Westminster led, 28-17. Penzelik's long fling, Noszka's one-handed double decker and a foul left the visiting five in the rear, 28-22, as the third period ended.

In notching up their eighth win over the Dukes, the Lawrence countians played a smart game throughout. "Buzz" Ridl seemed like the difference between victory and defeat for the Titans. He was the key. His passing and manner of gauging the attack was almost perfect. In addition, he counted eight points.

Stan Wask's work was strictly 1-A. The towering center busted up many Duke shots throughout. He emerged with high scoring honors, hitting a dozen points. Two substitutes, Fred Miller and Charles "Goldie" Goldblum, played an important hand. The Titans were good, they had to be.

Joe Camie and Bernie Fowle were the big shots for the losers. Westminster, which crossed the Dukes by presenting a man-to-man defense instead of the usual zone, took advantage of 17 fouls out of 24 tosses, while the losers connected 8 times out of 15.

The winners fired 55 shots during the evening while the Pittsburghers rattled the hoops 62 times. The triumph brings Westminster's total to 15 out of 20.

Fowle's shot under the hoop gave the Dukes a 2-0 lead in the first 10 seconds. With four minutes gone, Dale Dunmire chalked up the Titans' opening score, a foul after Ridl's foul miss. Rome Not Built In Day; Klee Begins Practices

William "Bill" Klee, New Castle high's track impresario, is a staunch believer that Rome wasn't built in a day.

With this proverb in mind and disregarding the more than nine inches of snow that have covered these precincts, the ex-New Castle-Geneva college football star has started to concoct his 1942 New Castle high track team.

Klee has made so much progress that some of his 45 or more proteges already have a workout under their belts. After scampering around New Castle high school building Monday, a procedure that will be in vogue until Taggart stadium is set to greet the scanty clads, the boys were forced indoors by the avalanche of snow yesterday.

Kleen reluctantly ordered a recess Tuesday. As soon as the snow disappears, Klee and his candidates will resume drills.

"As soon as Taggart stadium is in shape for track, I'll have my gang out. In the meantime, we'll get along around senior high."

Asked if there is anything he'd like us to print about track, genial "Bill" replied:

"How about some Florida sunshine?"

Prospects Good

While he sport in mention is still well off, Klee indicated that the candidates "show promise of developing into a fine team."

"Bill" Paradise, the half miler who looked exceedingly good last season, will be back.

George Crunkleton, the 6 foot 4 quarter mile who looks like Johnny Woodruff so much so that he even has a nine foot stride, looms as another standout performer.

"Bob" Stewart, of football fame, is a 200-yard man with elated plus, so is Bill Eakin.

Bobby Lee will stretch his versatility to his track sport. He'll ring the shot-put for the "Canes." If he heaves the heavy ball like he does a football, that will be quite all right with Klee.

"Bill" Currie, who leaped 20 feet 4 inches in his first attempt at broad jumping, should haul in a few points for the "Canes."

Klee confided today that if his track men run anything like the Germans are running against Russia, New Castle's in.

Second Wins First Tournament Game At Girard, Ohio

Johnny McGary, Jamison And Francis Pitzer Star In 38 To 29 Win

Second U. P. basketball team, co-leaders of the New Castle church league won their first game last night in the Eastern Ohio and Western Pennsylvania football tourney being staged at Girard, Ohio. The score was 38 to 29.

The local church boys led the entire way, 12 to 4 at the first period, 19 to 14 at the half and 30 to 19 at the end of the third quarter.

Leading the hit parade for the Second U. P. were Johnny McGary, Jamison and Francis Pitzer, with a combined total of 33 of the 38 points made by the Davis coached machine.

The Second U. P. team a "tourney darkhorse" gained considerable recognition last night and will be respected by their future tourney opponents.

The summary:

REALE MATCHED TO FIGHT STANKO

Fistiana will reign here again Monday night, March 15, in the Arena and among the cauliflower eard gentlemen who will display their talent are Billy Reale, the Castlewood farmer and George Stanko of Cleveland. They weigh 175 pounds.

Among the other bouts arranged by the Jefferson Athletic club matchmaker, Tom Leach are:

Frankie Cordy of Niles vs. Phil Naracko of Erie, at 135. Naracko and Cord are lightweight champions in their respective districts.

Jimmie Varketta of Erie vs. Baby Face Leasure of this city at 135.

Pete Misto of Youngstown vs. Chris Tabor, a stablemate of Cordy at 147.

Albert Leasure, this city, vs. Frankie Muehe, son of Jimmie, former middleweight boxer, of Niles, at 130.

Three battles remain to be arranged.

Titans To Play Nine Grid Foes

NEW WILMINGTON, March 4.—Westminster college will battle nine football foes during the next season.

The schedule follows:

September 19, Edinboro (home).

September 26, Slippery Rock (home).

October 3, Carnegie Tech (home).

October 10, Hiram (home).

October 17, Geneva (away).

October 24, Thiel (home).

October 31, Juniata (away).

November 7, Grove City (away).

November 14, Bethany (home).

Bessemer's Foe Is Still Unknown

Here it is Wednesday and Bessemer high, Section 20 winner and conqueror of Zelenople in a first round Class B WPIAL tourney setto, doesn't know its second round opponent.

The Lawrence countians are booked to meet the winner of the Monaca-Bridgeville clash. Bad weather caused a postponement of the Monaca-Bridgeville game, until tonight.

Bessemer meets the winner on Saturday night at New Brighton high, provided Monaca wins. Should Bridgeville cop, a new site will be selected.

MUSTANGS WILL MEET

The Mustangs baseball team will have a meeting on Friday night at the Aiken school. The following members are asked to show up: H. Libendorfer, R. Libendorfer, B. Miller, J. Campbell, T. Goerst, R. Scarazzo, A. Pitzer, J. Gunaugh, R. DelCastile, P. Summers, P. Kwolek, N. Martin, D. Fahrenbaugh, D. Suckie, A. Chip, and any others who are interested.

With the city-county basketball tourney rapidly approaching the starting date, I'd like to mention the name of John Antonio, who will perform for the N. Y. A. Center pitchers. A former Leechburg high school

New Castle Ready For Stadium Game With Braddock Hi

New Castle Going To Pitt Stadium First Time Since 1938

Braddock High Favorites Due To Being More Experienced

New Castle high school basketball team, champions of Section Three, left shortly before supper time tonight for the Pitt Stadium, where at 8:30 o'clock the red and black-clad tossers of senior high were slated for a battle with Braddock high in the preliminary round of the W. P. I. A. L. tourney.

The New Castle team will make the trip to Pittsburgh by bus, providing the highways are open, and Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh said this morning he thought they were. The team will leave New Castle earlier than had been previously planned, however, and go direct to the stadium.

Tuesday afternoon Bridenbaugh gave his boys a final looking over and pronounced them fit and ready for the grueling contest that he knows awaits them tonight in their initial stadium appearance.

Braddock Favored

Braddock high, Section 7 winners last year and this year both, will be the favorites to cop the battle, with two veterans from the 1941 team back on the squad and having had a big year. Braddock won Section 7 by losing but one game, and that to Wilkesburg, 43 to 41.

It is seldom that a Bridenbaugh coached New Castle high team is rated as underdogs in any game that they play, but this is evident tonight with a team of young boys who can play basketball and have Pitt stadium tourney play, and if proven it, but they are yet to taste

Brothers Finally Enlisted In Navy

(International News Service)
ERIE, Pa., March 4.—Donald Hunteon, 20, and his brother, Walter, 18, finally got into the navy Tuesday.
They tried to enlist four other times but were rejected because they were unable to prove that their father was dead, like they believed.
A search finally disclosed that the father Albert, was still living, so all three hitch-hiked from Bradford to Erie, and the father signed the papers for his two boys.
The father and mother have been estranged for years, it was understood, and the boys lived with their mother, believing their father had died.

Panama Opens New Super Highway To Military Traffic

By RICHARD H. ARMSTRONG
International News Service
Staff Correspondent

ANCON, C. Z. — The Trans-Isthmian highway of Panama is now open to military traffic from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Gen. Frank H. Andrews, Caribbean defense commander, opened the road by sending a convoy of five reconnaissance cars, consisting of two "peeps" and three "jeeps" on a round trip test tour which was made in something less than six hours of running time.

But the newspapermen who made the trip as the guests of General Andrews are of the opinion that it is open only because the army has unusually powerful transport equipment and some of the most capable and grizzled drivers to be found anywhere on earth.

Civilians are not yet permitted use of the road—there isn't room for them, their equipment would get stalled, and it is too dangerous. Only when the entire 47.6 miles between the two oceans is paved with a heavy ribbon of concrete will they be allowed on the highway.

Stretch Costs $8,000,000
A concrete highway already runs from the Pacific to the Madden dam.

Some idea of the magnitude of the task of building two 10-foot concrete lanes on a 40-foot road bed along the 26.7-mile route from Madden dam to the Atlantic may be gained from the fact that this stretch will cost $8,000,000.

Over this stretch there are 18 rivers to be bridged. There are pits 110 feet deep to be filled. There are hills which can be passed only with 160-foot deep cuts—and the same soil formation which made slides such a problem in the building of the Panama Canal, are harassing the engineers on the highway.

When rains make the working trails through the uncompleted areas a vast mire, caterpillar units have been known to dig themselves in until only the job was visible.

Young Workmen
Huge bulldozers and scrapers work on incredible grades as high as 30 degrees. The muscled young Americans working them push them casually to the brink of deep chasms over loose clay where the delay of seconds in shifting gears would send them rolling hundreds of feet down the sides of gorges under the weight of their machinery.

It takes grit to work on the hilly, jungle terrain over which the highway is being pushed.

In spite of the super difficulties being encountered, John L. Hubbard, principal highway engineer of the public roads administration, says that if he gets a break in weather he will have traffic rolling over a double lane of concrete at 50 miles an hour by the end of March.

A total of 1,340 employees are working on the road today in double 10-hour shifts, seven days a week. Concrete is being poured at the rate of 3,000 feet every 20 hours and may be speeded up to 7,000 feet a day in the near future.

Hairpin Turns
Nine inches of concrete is being poured over steel reinforcing to enable the road to take the heaviest of punishment.

Incidentally any skilled, courageous tractor scrapers who want to make $435 a month and transportation should write Mr. Hubbard at Balboa, C. Z.

But the most dramatic portion of the highway today is a tortuous seven-mile stretch which was jammed through in 14 days under army supervision to connect a gap in the road bed.

Wherever possible the temporary route followed the trail of the new super-highway. But most often it clings precariously to the side of cliffs, slithers up and down 25 degree grades, wallows through jungles and swamps, coils about promontories in 180 degree hairpin turns.

In spite of the hazards of construction, greater than ever encountered before by the builder in more than two decades of road construction, only five men have been killed since work began a year ago last December.

First American To Fly, Is Dead

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, March 4.—Capt. William Alonzo Avery, known as the "first American to fly," was dead today at the age 72. As a young man he was associated with the Wright brothers and became the first American to fly a motorless plane when he piloted a glider over the Indiana sand dunes June 23, 1896.

He had been a member of the Chicago Yacht club for 50 years and was one of the best known racing skippers on the Great Lakes.

Mexican Autoists Assured Of Year's Supply Of Tires

Ban On Exportation Of Rubber Prevents Americans From Sharing Good Fortune

By FRANK G. SISCOE
International News Service
Staff Correspondent

MEXICO CITY, March 4.—It will not be necessary for the United States to allocate rubber tires for the use of Mexico to carry out the principles of continental defense and solidarity.

The tire manufacturers of Mexico have assured the Mexican consumer, whether the consumption be for essential purposes or for pleasure driving, that sufficient tires and crude rubber are on hand to supply his driving needs for at least one year.

The recent prohibition by the Mexican government of the exportation of rubber tires and tubes, prevents the American consumer from sharing in the good fortune.

In order to obtain additional tires and tubes, it will be necessary to show that they are essential. At the present time Mexican rubber goods manufacturers have a backlog of 6,000 tons of crude rubber, the result of being foresighted in making up inventories for 1942. The Mexican consumption of crude rubber averages 5,000 tons a year. By the time the current supply has been exhausted the companies plan to have replenished their stocks from domestic sources.

Tourists May Get Tires
By decree the Mexican government has prohibited the exportation of rubber tires and tubes, thus preventing the Mexican public from being deprived of them by the lure of considerably higher American prices.

Previous to this decree, the domestic tire manufacturers, companies, by common agreement, refused to export tires and tubes.

Thus, the enterprising American is prevented from driving over the border to Mexico, buying one or more tires, and returning to be the envy of his neighbors. Also, the tire dealer is prevented from securing a franchise for the sale of Mexican tires in the United States.

However, the Mexican government, anxious to prevent a further falling in tourist trade caused by the war, has assured that the "bona-fide" American tourist will be able to secure the tire or two absolutely necessary for the continuance of his touring, and his return to the United States.

Produce Own Rubber
Although Mexican tire manufacturers, like those in the United States, have relied upon the importation of crude rubber from Malaya and the Dutch East Indies, Mexico produces within its own boundaries about 1,000 tons of crude rubber annually from its small rubber plantations and wild rubber trees.

There exists uncounted wild rubber trees in the jungles of Mexico, chiefly in the states of Campeche, Tabasco and Chiapas. Dense tropical vegetation has grown up to prevent the gathering of the latex, it not being economically profitable for the Indians to collect, coagulate, and wash the crude rubber.

Previous to 1910 large plantations of rubber trees were planted, and later abandoned, because of the unprofitable competition with the East Indian plantations. At the present time small rubber plantations exist in the State of Chiapas, on the Guatemalan border, which produce a small volume of cultivated rubber, estimated at 700 tons a year.

Makes Own Tires
The amount of crude rubber obtained from the wild rubber trees is largely governed by the effort directed toward the cleaning out of the tropical undergrowth, and the gathering of the sap from the rubber trees. It has been estimated that a responsible rubber authority that, within the year, by using the present rubber trees growing in Mexico, upwards of 5,000 tons of crude rubber can be produced annually. This amount will fulfill the needs of Mexico; and it will be the only country in the world that grows its own rubber, and manufactures its own tires.

NYA Camp Attacked By Enemy Submarine
(International News Service)

SAN JUAN, P. R., March 4.—An enemy submarine Monday night shelled a National Youth Administration camp on Mona Island, 45 miles west of Puerto Rico, an official at the camp revealed Tuesday.

He said: "There was no damage. The boys behaved well."

This attack was the second time an enemy undersea craft has attacked United States soil in the Western Hemisphere.

The last attack was launched against the California coast near Santa Barbara by a Japanese submarine.

Hard-Boiled Kid Launching Solo 'Commando' Raid

Nazis On French Coast Warned They Had Better Watch Out

By LARRY MEIER
International News Service
Staff Correspondent

LONDON, March 4.—A 15-year-old, hard-boiled kid from South London was loose today on a solo "Commando" raid—and the Nazis on the French coast had better look out.

The freckle-faced youngster escaped in pajamas from a "rendezvous" reformatory, swiped a khaki home guard uniform, a tommy gun, 100 rounds of ammunition and a bicycle.

Then, while armed police squads hunted for him, he headed for the south coast with the avowed intention of stealing a boat and staging a single-handed Commando raid on the French coast.

How far on this adventure the youngster had gone remained unknown late this morning. But his mother seemed to think he probably was making progress.

"He's Commando mad," she said. "Possibly he is making some sort of attempt now."

Authorities at first refused to reveal the youngster's name but later identified him as Scott Niven Craig. After breaking out of the home, young Craig walked six miles barefoot to a home guard armory, where he armed himself for attack.

This was not Craig's first attempt to do up the Nazis single-handed. He was due to appear in Wallington juvenile court on a variety of charges including the theft of a rifle, two Mills bombs and other equipment intended for some earlier Commando exploit.

Craig's mother said that her son talked enthusiastically on Sunday about his plans.

"I think I could raid France quite easily by myself if I could get a boat and a tommy gun," she quoted him as saying.

"I'd give the Germans something to think about."

Craig's father, an officer in the home guard, took some responsibility for his offspring's adventure.

"I taught him to use a tommy gun," he said. "He knows the mechanism well. He was a private in a home guard unit for some time, acting as a messenger."

Urges More Care In Filling Out Of Birth Records

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 4.—Persons responsible for reporting births today were urged by Dr. A. H. Stewart, acting state secretary of health, to spell names correctly, and to make certain that all essential information is contained in the record.

Such care is vital in times of national emergency when occasions for use of birth certificates arise much more frequently than in peacetime.

"The past carelessness of physicians, hospital attendants, midwives and others in the matter of incorrectly spelled and incomplete names," said Stewart, "has been a major factor in slowing up the issuance of birth certificates by the bureau of vital statistics."
